

STATE WILLING TO AID TOWN IN SEWAGE DISPOSALPrimary Units May Be Built Now, Reports Councilman Schnurman.

The State Department of Health is willing to cooperate with the Gettysburg borough council on the matter of a modified sewage treatment plant, if the borough will show a willingness to cooperate with the State Department.

This was the message brought back to Gettysburg from Harrisburg by N. B. Schnurman, member of the sewer committee of council, who went to Harrisburg Saturday morning, where he was in conference with officials of the State Department of Health.

His report will be given to the other councilmen at a special meeting to be held by President Frank R. Peckman on Friday evening of this week.

Lack Finances
Mr. Schnurman, accompanied by Robert Craig, engineers and surveyors, who made the preliminary survey and topographical sketch of Gettysburg's sewage system, and who arranged the conference with Department of Health officials, told the State authorities that Gettysburg's finances would not permit of the building of a complete sewage disposal plant at the present time.

He informed the State Health authorities that the town was able to borrow only about $55,000, which is enough to build several primary units of a sewage disposal plant, but not sufficient to build the system in its entirety.

From their files, Health Department officials brought forth and laid before Mr. Schnurman a decree of the state's attorney general handed down in 1917, directing this town to stop polluting the waters of Rock Creek.

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago, Sept. 8.—The fate of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, sons of Chicago millionaires, who kidnapped and murdered Robert Franks last May, has been sealed.

Judge John R. Caverly has completed the decision he will give Wednesday as the last act of his connection with the criminal court of Cook county. Upon it rests whether the youths shall die upon the gallows or grow into manhood in the Illinois state penitentiary, to which counsel pleaded that they be sent for life.

Three sheets of ruled manila paper containing approximately 1000 words are the decision of Judge Caverly, written yesterday after he had attended church under escort of a police guard.

Judge Caverly has stated that after his responsibility in the case has become a matter of record he will fight for at least three judges to sit in capital cases where a jury

2 MINUTE PHONE SERVICE OPENED TO MINNEAPOLIS

What is believed to be a record for long-distance telephone connection was made here last evening. A long-distance call was put into the local Bell Telephone exchange for Minneapolis, Minnesota. The operator who received the call informed the party that a report would be given on the call as soon as the Chicago operator was reached.

Exactly two minutes after the call had been put into the local exchange, the Gettysburg party was talking to the requested party in Minneapolis. This is believed to be the best and fastest long-distance telephone connection ever made over such a distance.

YANKEE FLIERS
JUMP TO NEW YORKLeave Boston Airport, Accompanied By Escort, This Afternoon.

(By Associated Press.)
Boston, Sept. 8.—The army world fliers took off from the airport here today at 12:02 p. m.

They thus began the series of jumps that will complete at Seattle the circumnavigation of the world. Weather conditions were good. They expected to arrive at Mitchell Field, New York, at 3 p. m.

The flag-plane Chicago, with Flight Commander Lieutenant L. H. Smith in the pilot seat, was first away. With the new wheeled-undercarriage that replaced pontoons here yesterday, the Chicago sped down the track and had gained the air and flying speed at 12:02 1/2.

Lieutenant Smith was off with a wave of the hand 43 seconds in advance of the Boston 11, commanded by Lieutenant Wade. The New Orleans came down the runway, to take the air a few seconds later. The world cruisers on their flight to New York flew back over Boston Commons where they assumed their regular formation for the 225 mile flight.

A squadron of escorting planes accompanied the world fliers.

35 'ARRESTS IN COUNTY IN MONTH

Thirty-five alleged liquor law violators were arrested in Adams county by State police during the nineteen months ending July 31, 1924. Of that number 14 were arrested during the year 1923, the remaining 21 during the seven months of 1924. Nineteen of the men taken in custody by the State police were convicted. Five were discharged and 11 are awaiting trial.

Fourteen bootleggers were sent to jail by the Adams county judges, 3 for periods ranging from six months to one year, 8 from two to six months, and 3 for two months or less. The fines collected from those of the convicted men totaled $3,252.

The records compiled by the State police show that the liquor law violator has but a slim chance to escape a jail sentence in Adams county. In other counties, however, that practice is not followed so that many of the bootleggers escaped with light fines.

Although the coupe was badly damaged, the two occupants crawled out of the wreckage uninjured, save for a severe shaking up and minor cuts and bruises.

Nuptials of Miss Elizabeth A. Huber and William Miller Welch, 2nd., Are Brilliant, Social Event Of Early Fall Season.

An early fall wedding of exceptional brilliance was that of Miss Elizabeth Annan Huber, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Huber, Carlisle street, to William Miller Welch, 2nd, of Philadelphia and Yardley, which was consummated at Christ Lutheran Church, Saturday evening at 7 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Henry Anstadt, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, of Chambersburg, assisted by the Rev. Dr. A. E. Wagner, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church. Carl Simon, of Hagerstown, Maryland, sang several selections while the guests assembled, and Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered by Mrs. Alvin Byer, of Norristown, who preceded the bride party to the altar. Immediately after the betrothal service, Mrs. Byer sang "All For You" and "Because." Mrs. S. F. Snyder, Stevens street, presided at the organ.

The decorations carried out a scheme of green and white. Clematis veiled the organ, while oak leaves and hydrangea were used on the altar rail, the balcony and the windows. Palms, with tall standards filled with Easter lilies, and high candleabra were used around the altar before which the bride couple stood.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white Elizabeth crepe, trimmed with seed pearls and brilliants. Her veil was of tulle with coronet and edging of rose point lace, which had also been worn by the groom's mother and grandmother. Small sprays of orange blossoms also trimmed the veil. She had a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley, with a corsage inset of orchids.

She was attended by Mrs. Charles H. Smith as matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Louise Evans, of Crawfordsville, Indiana; Miss Ann Mitchell, of New York; Miss Gertrude McAuley, of Philadelphia, and Miss Frances Duden, of Pottstown. Group.

All of New York City with its acute social problems of the congested slums to the bright sides of life along the Great White Way and Coney Island has been laboratory, textbook and schoolroom this summer to E. Raymond Baublitz, a student at Gettysburg College.

He has just completed a seven weeks' study as a member of the College Summer Service Group, a body of American University men who are chosen annually by the Intercollegiate Y. M. C. A. of New York to gain a first-hand knowledge of pressing problems in that city. Twenty-eight men from all sections of the nation, selected for qualities of leadership, composed this year's group.

Working among the tenement dwellers of the famous East Side where there live as many as 5,000 people to a single city block, members of the group came in daily contact with the "submerged" peoples through visits to their living quarters for survey data, through recreational work in settlement and church houses and observation trips to explore other interesting sections of the metropolis. Twice weekly the group met to hear noted social workers and test their findings.

Mr. Baublitz engaged in actual social work in carrying out his study at the Boverly Y. M. C. A. located at 8 East 3rd street, New York City.

Gettysburg College will be given an opportunity of sending another student for such a study next summer, it was announced by John R. McCurdy, director of the group.

C. C. SECRETARY
TO BE SELECTEDBoard Of Directors Meet This Evening To Pass On Applications For Full-Time Office.

Applications from prospective secretaries of the local Chamber of Commerce will be considered at a board of directors meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the parlors of the Fire Engine House.

The meeting of the directors has been called by President Cook for the purpose of passing on a large number of applications received relative to the position of full-time paid secretary. Every director has been urged to be present at the session this evening.

Selection of a full-time paid secretary was postponed for several weeks, at the reorganization meeting of the Chamber of Commerce some time ago, for the purpose of securing more applications not only from Gettysburg, but from foreign fields. Some directors were of the belief that a local man, while fully qualified, would not serve the purpose of the chamber and were of the opinion that a secretary, not a resident of Gettysburg, would better fill the requirement at this time, stating that a man trained in Chamber of Commerce work was needed now.

Other directors expressed the belief that the Chamber was not financially able to employ a trained out-of-town man and voiced the opinion that a local man would serve the purpose just as well.

It was decided to sound out the membership on the question and to abide by the majority. The selection will be made tonight. Appointment of various committees will also be announced tonight.

TWO JOYRIDERS IN AUTO CRASH

Three Others Are Near Death
After Accident in New Jersey; Are From Philadelphia.

Philadelphia—Several pints of booze, a high-powered car, a speeding driver and a fatal crash.

The toll—two men dead, three others perhaps fatally injured and a girl seriously hurt. All Philadelphians.

The two dead were James Gallagher, 26-year-old father of two children, 6200 Greenwood avenue, and Thomas Coakley, Forty-ninth street and Greenwood avenue.

Racing at a speed of from sixty to sixty-five miles an hour, a large touring car skidded on Black Horse 'pike Sunday morning at Chews Landing, ten miles below Camden, tore off the road and crashed through the side of a barn. Three men were catapulted from the machine. They and the other two men in the car were badly crushed. A girl received possible internal injuries besides many lacerations, and the machine was wrecked.

3 Are Injured

The injured are Anna Bozic, 15 years old, of 1312 South Napa street; John Dowd, 25 years old; 4917 Saybrook avenue; Leo Gallagher, 21 years, of 2539 Oakford street, driver of the machine. All were taken to the West Jersey Homeopathic Hospital, Camden, where fears for the lives of the three injured men were expressed.

The place where the crash occurred has been the scene of many accidents, several of which were fatal. There are two sharp and narrow twists in the road, one known as Bells curve.

According to the police, the occupants of the death car had been drinking. The dangerous bends in Black Horse 'pike meant nothing to the driver. The machine, bound for Atlantic City, swept down the road at high speed. To take the curve was impossible. The car veered, rocked and shot off the 'pike.

The autoists shrieked as the machine sideswiped a large advertising sign, leaped across the ten feet of meadowland and tore through the wall of a barn owned by John J. Sparks, coming to a stop only after reaching the center of the building. The structure was moved slightly on its foundations.

Figures showed that with the present disposal system one hundred per cent contamination of the waters of this stream was created.

State Department Willing

Mr. Schurman said he found a willingness on the part of the Health Department officials to assist Gettysburg in any way possible to secure an alleviation of its sewage disposal trouble. He was given to understand that, if the town started to build several of the primary units of the proposed plant, the Health Department would be willing to allow the modified plant to be operated for several years, after which the town would be expected to add the last unit of the system. According to present plans, the sprinkler filter is eliminated. Within several years, it is expected that a simpler and cheaper form of final filtration, probably operated with chemicals, would be on the market and could be installed at a reasonable cost.

It was pointed out by Mr. Craig at the meeting of council last Friday evening that the final unit of the plant could be added without "junking" any part of the proposed system.

Meeting On Friday

Since the State Department of Health has shown a willingness to cooperate with council by allowing it to install the amended plant, it is thought likely that at Friday evening's meeting favorable action on the floating of a bond issue by the borough will be taken. Such a bond issue, it is pointed out, will not increase present taxes to any considerable extent, but at the same time will make possible the extension of York street to Rock Creek and beyond, now hindered by the obnoxious stench of that stream.

If council agrees to float the bond issue, Gettysburg voters will be asked to express their sentiments via the ballot at the November election when the issue will go before the people.

COP RESCUES 3 IN PHILLY FIRE

Man, Wife And Boy Are Saved
By Police Officer; Were Trapped
In Burning Building.

Philadelphia, Sept. 8.—A family of three persons was rescued by a policeman early Sunday when fire trapped them in their burning home.

Policeman Davis, of the Twenty-eighth and Oxford streets station, heard breaking glass. He found the entire cigar store occupying the first-floor front and also the barber shop in the rear of 2402 Ingersoll street, a mass of flames.

The cop phoned to engine company 34, Twenty-seventh and Thompson streets, and then rang the bell to awaken the sleeping tenants on the second floor.

Davish then aroused the neighbors on both sides of the blazing dwelling. They gathered their valuables and in scanty attire rushed to the street. In the meantime, Peter Koch, his wife, Eva, and his 2 1/2-year-old son, Alexander, tried to make their exit by the stairway. They found their escape cut off. Mrs. Koch was overcome by smoke and collapsed. Koch ran to the window and shouted for help.

Policeman Davish, placing his uniform coat about his head, fought his way through smoke and flames and made his way to the second floor. He took the unconscious woman in his arms and tried to carry her down the stairs. The fire had made such progress he, too, was trapped.

ANNOUNCE DETAILS

College campus where patriotic exercises will be held. These will be in charge of the Rev. N. L. Horn, pastor of Trinity Reformed church here.

Invocation
After singing the National anthem, the invocation will be asked by the Rev. W. C. Robinson, pastor of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church. This will be followed by an address by Colonel Oliver H. Dockery, of Lancaster, an officer in the 79th Division. "America" will be then sung and Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, will deliver an address. The meeting will close with music.

Immediately following the campus exercises, a baseball game will be played on Nixon Field at College between two teams in the Adams county league. It is likely that a protested game between Gettysburg and New Oxford will be the attraction.

According to reports received by members of the citizens-military committee, in charge of plans for Defense Day, there is a general response noticed throughout the county. Enthusiasm is running particularly high in Littlestown, McSherrystown, East Berlin and through the northern towns of the county.

Four bands are expected to participate in the parade: Gettysburg, Mt. Joy Community, Paradise Protectorate and Biglerville.

That man is wise who beats off petty troubles and does not permit their stinging to fret him.

SEA HAWK

by RAFAEL SABATINI

Sir Oliver Tressilian, renowned for his exploits on the Spanish Main, is betrothed to Rosamund Godolphin, but the marriage is opposed by both Rosamund's brother, Peter, and her guardian, Sir John Killigrew. By repeated insults Peter finally provokes Oliver to threaten murder, and when Oliver's young half-brother, Lionel, kills Peter in an unwitnessed quarrel suspicion falls on Oliver. Even Rosamund believes him guilty, and asks him to explain the trail of blood found leading from the body to his doorway. Desiring to protect Lionel, Oliver can do nothing but protest his innocence. But he goes to the justices and asks them to draw up a document attesting to the fact that he bears on his body no mark of recent wound; that therefore the trail of blood, obviously that of the wounded murderer, was not his. This document he takes away to hold in readiness until needed.

A few weeks later Lionel learns from Jasper Leigh, a pirate sea captain whose ship is lying in the harbor, that the queen has been petitioned to command the justices to bring Oliver to trial. Half-creased with fear that should Oliver clear himself his own implication will follow, Lionel formulates a scheme to get his brother out of the way. He hires Leigh to abduct Oliver and sell him as a galley slave to the Barbary rovers.

The clock over the stables chimed the hour of eight. Master Lionel shrank back in his chair at the sound. The thing would be doing even now. In his mind he saw it all—saw his brother come running in his eagerness to the gates of Godolphin Court, and then dark forms resolve themselves from the surrounding darkness and fall silently upon him.

Another half hour sat he there. The thing was done by now, and this assurance seemed to quiet him a little.

Then came Nicholas again to babble of some possible mischance having overtaken his master.

"What mischance should have overtaken him?" growled Lionel, as if in scorn of the idea.

"I pray none indeed," replied the servant. "But Sir Oliver lacks not for enemies nowadays, and 'tis scarce safe for he to be abroad after dark."

Master Lionel dismissed the notion contemptuously. For pretense's sake he announced that he would wait no longer, whereupon Nicholas brought in his supper and left him again to go and linger about the door, looking out into the night and listening for his master's return. He had paid a visit to the stables and knew that Sir Oliver had gone forth afoot.

Meanwhile Master Lionel must make pretense of eating, though actual eating must have choked him. He smeared his platter, broke food and avidly drank a bumper of claret. Then he, too, feigned a growing anxiety and went to join Nicholas. Thus they spent the weary night, watching for the return of one whom Master Lionel knew would return no more.

At dawn they roused the servants and sent them to scour the countryside and put the news of Sir Oliver's disappearance abroad. Lionel himself rode out to Arweback, to ask Sir John Killigrew bluntly if he knew aught of this matter.

Sir John showed a startled face, but swore readily enough that he had not so much as seen Sir Oliver for days. He was gentle with Lionel, whom he liked, as everybody liked him. The lad was so mild and kindly in his ways; so vastly different from his arrogant overbearing brother, that his virtues shone the more brightly by that contrast.

"I confess it is natural you should come to me," said Sir John. "But, my word on it, I have no knowledge of him. It is not my way to beset my enemies in the dark."

"Indeed, indeed, Sir John, I had not supposed it in my heart," replied the afflicted Lionel. "Forgive me that I should have come to ask a question so unworthy. Set it down to my distracted state. I have not been the same man these months. I think since that happening in Godolphin Park. The thing has preyed upon my mind. It is a fearful burden to know your own brother—though I thank God he is no more than my half-brother—guilty of so foul a deed."

"How?" cried Killigrew, amazed. "You say that? You believed it yourself?"

Master Lionel looked confused, a look which Sir John entirely misunderstood and interpreted entirely in the young man's favor. And it was thus and in that moment that was sown the generous seed of the friendship that was to spring up between these two men, its roots fertilized by Sir John's pity that one so gentle-natured, so honest, and so upright should be cursed with so villainous a brother.

"I see, I see," he said. And he sighed. "You know that we are daily expecting an order from the queen for her justices to take the action which hitherto they have refused against your—against Sir Oliver."

He frowned thoughtfully. "D'ye think Sir Oliver had news of this?"

At once Master Lionel saw the drift of what was in the other's mind.

"I know it," he replied. "Myself I bore it him. But why do you ask?"

"Does it not help us perhaps to understand and explain Sir Oliver's disappearance? God lack! Surely, knowing that, he was a fool to have tarried here, for he would hang beyond all doubt if he stay for the coming of her grace's messengers."

"My God!" said Lionel, staring. "You—think he is fled then?"

Sir John shrugged. "What else is to be thought?"

Lionel hung his head. "What else, indeed?" said he, and took his leave like a man overwrought, as indeed he was. He had never considered that so obvious a conclusion must follow upon his work so fully to explain the happening and to set at rest any doubt concerning it.

He returned to Penarrow, and bluntly told Nicholas what Sir John suspected and what he feared must be the true reason of Sir Oliver's disappearance. The servant, however, was none so easy to convince. "But do ee believe that he does it?" cried Nicholas. "Do ee believe it, Master Lionel?"

There was reproach amounting to horror in the servant's voice. "God help me, what else can I believe now that he is fled?"

Nicholas sidled up to him with tightened lips. He set two gnarled fingers on the young man's arm.

"He'm not fled, Master Lionel," he announced with grim impressiveness. "He'm never a turntail. Sir Oliver he don't fear neither man nor devil, and if so be him had killed Master Godolphin, he'd never ha' denied it. Don't ee believe Sir John Killigrew. Sir John ever hated he."

But in all that countryside the "Trust me to help a sound tale along."

servant was the only one to hold this view. If a doubt had lingered anywhere of Sir Oliver's guilt that doubt was now dispelled by this fight of his before the approach of the expected orders from the Queen.

Later that day came Captain Leigh to Penarrow inquiring for Sir Oliver.

Nicholas brought word of his presence and his inquiry to Master Lionel, who bade him be admitted. The thick-set little seaman rolled in on his bowed legs, and leered at his employer when they were alone.

"He's snug and safe aboard," he announced. "The thing were done as clean as peeling an apple, and as quiet."

"Why did you ask for him?" quoth Master Lionel.

"Why?" Jasper leered again. "My business was with him. There was some talk between us of him going a voyage with me. I've heard the gossip over at Smithick. This will fit in with it." He laid that finger of his in his nose. "Trust me to help a sound tale along. 'Twere a clumsy business to come here asking for you, sir. Ye'll know how to account for my visit."

Lionel paid him the price agreed and dismissed him upon receiving the assurance that the Swallow would put to sea upon the next tide.

When it became known that Sir Oliver had been in treaty with Master Leigh for a passage overseas, and that it was but on that account that Master Leigh had tarried in that haven, even Nicholas began to doubt.

BIGLERVILLE BUMPS BULLETS

Locals Tumble From Pedestal And Lose To rejuvenated Aggregation, Saturday 5-3.

FIELD IS PACKED

Biglerville continued its winning streak on Saturday when it turned back the Gettysburg "Bullets" 5 to 3 before a large sized crowd.

Bream took the mound for the Biglerville squad and, while on the verge of being yanked several times, he steadied and with masterly support from his teammates, emerged from the tight places in fine shape and stuck to his guns through the entire fray.

Tennant drew the hurling assignment for the "Bullets." While his teammates opened the contest with two tallies in the initial frame, he could not stop the strong Biglerville outfit in their half of the first and before three men had been retired the home squad had evened the count.

The battle settled down for a few innings, until the Biglerville tribe annexed another counter in the fourth frame. Ensweiler walked and Cary rolled out Tennant to Hunter. Linebaugh doubled to right and Ensweiler scored from the second cushion. Raff was hit by a pitched ball and on the first play both men moved a base. Thomas lined out to Gilbert who heaved perfectly to Weikert at the plate and Linebaugh was put out at the home sack.

Tied In Eighth

In the eighth frame, Musselman was safe when Thomas muffed a hot roller, and threw wild to first. Musselman stole second and Moser sacrificed him to third. Woodward doubled to center scoring Musselman knotting the count at three all. Woodward went to third on a passed ball and Hunter breezed. With Armor at the plate, Woodward attempted to steal home but was thrown out.

It looked as though the pastime was going into extra innings. Biglerville, however, started out anew in their half of the fray. M. Knouse singled to center. Slaybaugh sacrificed, Armor to Hunter. M. Knouse moved a base. Ensweiler rolled out Armor to Hunter, but Knouse went to third on the play. Cary then singled to center scoring M. Knouse and Linebaugh followed with a double to center scoring Cary. Raff was hit by a pitched ball and Linebaugh was caught off third, Weikert to Armor.

Gettysburg was unable to do any damage in their half of the ninth. Armor fanned and Gilbert fled out to Thomas. Weikert breezed on three pitched balls and the fracas was over. Gettysburg and Biglerville fans turned out en masse for the contest. Biglerville's rejuvenated outfit installed new enthusiasm into their fans and fannettes and their double victory over Arendtsville on Labor Day has done much to keep that club on the winning streak.

Bream was touched for opportune hits, but not sufficient to give the Bullets the pastime, while Tennant was touched for hits, when hits counted for runs. Coupled with several miscues in the infield proved costly for the visiting tribe.

Protest Officiating

A howl of protest emerged from Gettysburg fans when it was learned that Crum would be one of the umpires. Crum formerly umpired for the Arendtsville aggregation, but was released when he flipped a coin to render a decision in deciding a crucial play. This proved too much for the Arendtsville tribe and they released the midget ump. Biglerville used him in Saturday's contest and several "raw" decisions which however did not prove very costly met with a howl of disapproval from the local bugs.

A number of fans have informed Manager "Doc" Tate that they desired to protest the use of Crum in next Saturday's contest, "because of his lack of knowledge of the pastime." They go further in stating "that a bad decision is apt to spoil the chances of either team and that he is not fully qualified to hold a position as umpire in the Adams county league."

SAY YANKS ARE SHRINKING WITH "SPEEDY" LIVING

Detroit.—People of America have lost two inches in stature since the Civil War, according to Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, dietician and superintendent of the Battle Creek Sanitarium.

"Stunted growth is resulting from our modern 'eat and run' habits," Dr. Kellogg said. "The American public gives little or no thought to the proper consumption of food. Our modern business activities are so hurried and intense as to allow no consideration for the most important element of healthful living, the proper selection and careful mastication of food consumed."

"The stature of the American people has dropped two inches in the last 60 years, due to the modern American custom of bolting our food like pythons."

"Food is fuel to the body, and poor fuel means a deficient output of energy just as too much fuel chokes the fire of health and retards normal development."

"A height in stature of over six feet prevailed in the early sixties; today the average normal height in stature of the American people is much below six feet, a condition attributable to our modern quick lunch counters and hurried mode of living."

Times of general calamity and confusion have ever been productive of the greatest minds. The purest ore is produced from the hottest furnace and the brightest thunderbolt is elicited from the darkest storm.

Seek not proud riches but such as you may get justly, use soberly, distribute cheerfully and leave contentedly.

HOME TALENT

A sudden craze for dancing has enveloped a number of Gettysburg's younger residents, probably due to the opening of a new dance hall here recently, but at any rate more of Gettysburg's young folks and a good sprinkling of the more mature have taken to tripping the light fantastic with a vim.

And in passing it might be said that the thoughts of most of us invariably turn to foreign fields for musical interpretations of the various popular dance selections.

But Gettysburg need go no farther than its own front door.

In "Bobby's Serenaders" Gettysburg can indeed feel a just degree of boastful pride. Seven young men, all "home talent," products of this thriving community, imbued with the musical spirit and genius, as it were, have banded together in an orchestra that has already achieved an enviable reputation. They have played at a number of social functions and have always scored a decided hit.

But to some it seems that it is quite necessary to engage an "outside" orchestra, before a dancing party can be made a success, both socially and otherwise.

"Bobby's Orchestra" playing at a recent dancing party acquitted themselves in a creditable manner. They are a live, peppy group of musicians, playing all the popular selections in a manner that bespeaks study and application, and Gettysburg can well feel proud of having an orchestra of the calibre of this one in its midst. It isn't necessary to seek elsewhere for musical talent when there is an orchestra so ably fitted to "fill-the-bill" as are Bobby's Serenaders and it is the wish of a goodly number of Gettys-burgians that they are given due credit for their efforts to give to the dancing public of Gettysburg the latest and newest in musical interpretation.

The orchestra is made up of:
"Bobby" Miller, piano; Richard Codori, traps, singing; George Hamm, trombone; Paul Reaser, violin, saxophone; Edward McSherry, saxophone; Barton Foth, banjo, and Charles Rogers, trumpet.

GRIEF

I could not utter it last night
Because the voice was dumb.
But now alone I try to write
The words which would not come.
When all the bitter tears are dried Sometime when you're alone
You'll find a calm to those denied
Who never grief have known.

I know the hurt is keen today,
I know the loss is great,
But what if you should go away
With no one there to wait?
And oh how lonely Heaven would be
If all you loved were here
And there was none you longed to see
To welcome you, my dear?

If God had spared you every blow
Which comes to us on earth,
Had shielded you from every woe
And filled your years with mirth
And then at last He bade you leave Your place above to find?
Throughout eternity you'd grieve
For those you've left behind.

Oh you have had a lovely child,
And you have lost a son
But soon you shall be reconciled
When life's brief time is done
For Heaven is made of those we love,
The beautiful and true,
And God has taken him above
To build a Heaven for you.

AGITATE SALE OF
TURKS TREASURES

Collection of Turkish Caliph Contains Some of Most Valuable Gems in Existence.

Constantinople.—The question of what is to be done with the treasures of the caliph is occupying front page space in all Turkish newspapers.
These treasures contain some of the most valuable gems in existence.

One group of papers demands that the treasure be sold at international auction, so that the money may become available for much needed purposes of reconstructing the country and for relieving distress among the abjectly poor.

Until 1916 the treasure was kept in the Palace of Top-Kapu. After the present regime succeeded to power it was brought to the mosque of Achmed Pasha at Angora. The treasure includes the gems and works of art collected by the sultans and caliphs through centuries. There are necklaces of walnut sized diamonds, medallions of rubies and topaz, chains of pearls of priceless value, diadems and crowns of precious stones, goblets and cups of gold and silver, swords and scimitars and pistols set with jewels, and the famous saddles of the sultans and princes, which are studded with diamonds and other precious stones.

of living are rising as the result of "Pacific northwest fruits, vegetables on the market in China the year around as the result of a steamship

Geneva.—Prince Tafari-Mekonnen, heir to the throne of Abyssinia, who is expected like Premiers MacDonald, Herriot and Mussolini, to attend the September session of the League of Nations, has forwarded to Geneva a cerning the traffic in and possession of arms and ammunition. Some idea of the scrupulous manner in which the North African state intends to meet its league obligations is had from the tenor of the princely communication to Sir Eris Drummond, the secretary general of the League.

$10.00 Worth $7.00
For

In the printing business, as in most other forms of trade, $7.00 seldom buys more than $7.00 worth of value. When $10.00 worth is offered for $7.00, one of two things must be true—

- 1.—The seller doesn't know the value of his product—an unusual condition and an indication of weakness—or
- 2.—The QUALITY of the work has been so slighted that it is high priced at $7.00.

When you buy your job printing from The Gettysburg Times, the price you pay is the actual cost of economical production as told by a carefully planned cost system, plus a profit which is just about the same you ask in your own business—a fair business profit.

We do not offer $10.00 worth of printing for $7.00, but you can depend upon complete satisfaction and a good $7.00 worth of service when $7.00 is the amount of your bill.
Our growing list of satisfied and loyal printing customers is the best testimonial of our method of doing business.

No printing job is too big; none too small for us to handle in a manner that will please.
All receive the same careful attention of first-class printers who take pride in their work.

The next time you have a job you want printed, bring it to our office, or telephone us.
Ask for Mr. Smiley or Mr. Wierman.

West Africa Takes To Wheat Bread

Washington.—Natives of British and French West Africa are rapidly adopting a yeast bread made of wheat flour as a regular item of diet, and agriculture department officials foresee an increased trade in flour with that territory.

The growing demand for wheat flour is the result of laborers being recruited from the interior for service in the seaport towns where, according to American Consul W. J. Yerby, at Dakar, Senegal, it is quite common for these laborers to make a meal of a loaf of bread and a tin of water.

LENIN PAINTS
HIS COLLEAGUESPolitical Testament Of Late Russa Leader Reveals What Former Chief Thought Of His Men.

Riga.—What Nikolai Lenin thought of his own co-workers is revealed in a political testament of his which, according to the Socialists, has recently been handed by his widow to the central executive committee of the Communist party. In short sentences the late premier writes as follows about various leaders of bolshevik Russia:

Trotsky—Very gifted, but loves to pose too much. It is wrong to accuse him of leaning toward menshevism, for in reality he has always stood on the side of the bolsheviks. He can be an excellently disciplined party member.

Zinoviev—Not gifted, yearning for power. A sharp eye must be kept on him. He can become a danger to the party.

Kamenev—Vacillates. An opportunist, as was proven during the October days of 1917. He must be watched.

Stalin—Not clever, anxious to pick quarrels, a climber who strives to set himself up as dictator.

Bucharin—Not clever, a bad Marxist, knows nothing about dialectics though he likes to write about it.

Pjatakoff—Very gifted, but has been smothered of late by administrative work.

The testament is said to have been opened in the presence of all the persons whom Lenin undertook to describe and characterize.

SWEDEN TRIES TO PRESERVE BUFFALO

Stockholm.—An effort to rescue and revive the dying dynasty of "visents," or European buffaloes, said to be the rarest living mammals in the world today, has just begun here in the opening of a 100-acre preserve where these animals will be allowed to live and breed under natural conditions.

Out of a total of only 56 "visents" in the world, seven are to be found in Sweden, and up to the present time this herd has been kept in the open-air museum of Stockholm. But the animals did not seem to thrive well in the restricted space. Information regarding the situation came to Consul-General Axel A. Johnson, who immediately offered to set aside 100 acres of the wildest part of his estate in central Sweden as a preserve. The offer was accepted and now a bull "visent" and two females have been turned out into the kind of country over which their ancestors roamed thousands of years ago.

—to have a good
APPETITE!

"Yes! thank you."

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and ambition. Hearty eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells, the spark that renews your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

A GREAT MENACE

By M. A. Traylor, Chairman, Economic Policy Commission, American Bankers Association

A cross section of American thought today, as reflected in private conversation, public addresses and through our multitude of avenues of thought distribution, would reveal perhaps as great a confusion of ideas and purposes as confounded the assembled throng at Babylon. Is it not high time that the bankers demand the preservation and practice of those sound fundamental principles which are so absolutely essential to the welfare of the nation? Bankers and business men of the country have little right to complain of the prevalence of unsound economic theories, of radical political tendencies and paralyzingly foolish legislation, so long as they maintain the silent or defensive attitude which has characterized them in the past.

A few days ago I heard a gentleman, supposedly well versed in politics, say that if the charter of the Federal Reserve System were up for renewal or extension at the present time, he doubted very much if Congress would prolong the life of the System, and certainly if it did would only do so after such amendments and modifications as would destroy the basic principles underlying the present structure.

A real menace is involved in this suggestion, but I wonder how much we have done or will do to acquaint the voting public, who will eventually elect the Congress who will pass upon this proposition, with the actual facts of the case. Notwithstanding mistakes that have been made in the administration of the System, most of the opposition to it is based not upon facts but upon twisted stories and the absolute falsehoods of the office seeker, who has found it easy and popular to attack and blame the System for all the ills, alleged and imagined, which may affect any particular group.

Banking a Science
The science of banking is not an accident. It rests upon principles as fundamental as the laws of the universe. Long, technical and practical experience is absolutely essential to the safe management of any financial institution, and yet what is the result of the political assaults that have been made upon the Federal Reserve, the greatest piece of financial machinery in this country? The people from time to time are electing to office men whose chief claim to their support is that they will see to it that every banker is driven from the Federal Reserve Board and that the Board shall be constituted in a majority or wholly of those coming from the particular bloc the politician alleges he represents.

There should be a diversity of interest represented upon the Board, but that the majority of the Board should ever be constituted of other than men thoroughly trained by practical experience in financial management is to me utterly unthinkable and if practiced will in the end lead to a complete disintegration of the strength of the System, if not to a worse conclusion.

We do not select bankers for our plowboys or bricklayers for our artists. We demand specialists for every character of specific activity, and the welfare of our whole population demands that the credit power of the nation, without which no business can live, must be committed likewise to the hands of experts in its use and distribution.

It is a pretty and catching phrase to declaim that if you destroy the agriculture of the country grass will grow in the streets of your cities, but it is no more true than to say that if you destroy the credit structure of your country the products of your labor will rot in the fields and the machinery of your industry and commerce rust into inactivity and decay. Therefore, let us, who are in no small measure responsible for the banking and financial welfare of the nation, give unstintingly of our time to the propagation of sound economic policies.

FOR FARM PROGRESS

The Agricultural Committee of the North Carolina Bankers Association, in conference with officials of the College of Agriculture, recently adopted the following program for active work in the state:

1. Aid county agents in determining definite objectives for each community and organize county in community groups to carry them out.
2. Give each county a definite objective through an organization of farmers, bankers, and business men.
3. Secure from state and federal sources assistance in determining definite objectives and in giving instruction to members of community and county organizations.
4. Organize bankers, merchants, and farmers where desirable into better marketing units.
5. Secure co-operation of State College in surveying agricultural conditions and giving instructions through its specialists in organization, farm management, production, and marketing.

The New York Bankers Association describes in a recent bulletin the campaign under foot to foster club work among boys and girls in the rural schools. Prizes have been donated by a number of the former presidents of the Association to be awarded to the children, the communities, and the banks interested in the work.

CHINESE WOMAN BANDIT EXECUTED

"Old Mother" Djao, Most Notorious Bandit, Is Executed At Ichowfu in Shantung.

Shanghai—"Old Mother" Djao, said to be the most notorious and blood-thirsty bandit the province of Shantung ever produced, has been executed at Ichowfu in Shantung, according to reports received in Shanghai by mission organizations. These advices add that the dreaded feminine bandit underwent that most fearsome of Chinese death penalties, the ling-che, or in English, the slicing process.

Forty-seven years old and an expert horsewoman, "Old Mother" Djao led a band of several hundred outlaws who terrorized a broad area. It is related of her that last summer she planned an attack against Ichowfu after calling to her aid two added groups of bandits. They had assembled at a place near the village of Balihsiang when a homeguard of villagers, known as the "Big Knife Society," apprised of their purpose, attacked them and suffered utter defeat.

The villagers were driven back into Balihsiang and the bandits followed them. Then the gates of the village were closed and every man was shot down. Sixty women and children then were lined up, and "Old Mother" Djao was asked what to do with them. Her orders to kill them all were carried out with the result that every man, woman and child who was within the walls after the gates had been closed was slain. Even the cattle and dogs of the village suffered the same fate.

Ling-che is simply vivisection done by experts in such a manner that the victim survives in a conscious state through hours of a terrible ordeal.

POSSIBLE USE BY SPIES BARS RADIO

Moscow—Russia is one of the few countries of the world where "radio" sets in the home are scarcely known. In all the 8,000,000 square miles of Russian territory, with a population of 130,000,000, it would be difficult to find more than a dozen amateur receiving outfits.

This is due to the non-manufacture of home wireless apparatus in Russia; to the prohibitive duty on imported sets; to the Russian peasant's ignorance of what wireless means, and to the reluctance of the Soviet government to permit the indiscriminate use of radio apparatus which might be used for espionage purposes.

JUGOSLAVS LIKE CIGARETTES BEST

Cigars Are Not Very Popular In Yugoslavia; 1924 Sees Reduction Of Number Of Cigars Smoked.

Belgrade—Figures issued by the tobacco regie of the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes show a marked increase in the use of tobacco in the country in the past year. The figures for the first three months of the present year show that 25 per cent more cigarettes were smoked than during the corresponding period last year.

The consumption of cigars shows a diminution which tends to raise the question as to whether cigars lend themselves to the Yugoslavian taste.

In 1923 there was a consumption of 39,642,949 cigars in the first three months of 1923, while in the first three months of the present year the total was reduced to 10,320,747.

That seems to answer the question whether the cigar will ever supplant the cigarette as the favorite smoke of the Serbians, Croats and Slovenes. But it is worthy of note that the further west the traveler in Yugoslavia goes the more he finds the cigar in evidence as the popular smoke.

You cannot judge of a tree by its bark. True delicacy, that most beautiful heart-leaf of humanity, exhibits itself most significantly in little things.
